Good morning Jim,

I was actually just about to send this when I got your other email.

The attorneys have approved the language as written, so attached are the draft legal ad and map for submittal to the Times. (I was hoping to be able to add a few sentences that would cover us in case the in-person format got changed to virtual at the last minute, so we wouldn't have to postpone and do this again, but didn't get approval for that.)

Thanks,
Linda

Jim,

We're advertising two cases in Largo and one in Clearwater. The Legistar items are 20-1068A through 20-1070A.

Our fourth public hearing is 20-1148A, but since we've already advertised it and it was deferred to a date certain, we won't have to readvertise as long as the meeting format is still in-person. But if the meeting format changes to virtual, we'll need to add it to the ad.

It is recommended that when the Ad is ready it be submitted to the Tampa Bay Times earlier than Thursday, 9 July.
This will allow for any corrections.

Good morning James,

I'd like to publish in the Times on Sunday since that will give us the most time. I think it's still prudent to question whether the meeting will happen in person with everything that's going on.

That will mean submitting on Thursday, July 9. I'll continue working with the County Attorney's Office to get our draft approved, and forward it to you as soon as it is.

Thanks,
Linda

James,

At a minimum, we'll need to advertise three Countywide Plan Map amendments, which weren't scheduled for any previous meetings. If there's a change in the 7/21 meeting format, we'll also need to readvertise the Countywide Rules amendment. We can do that in the same ad, time permitting.

The Times isn't off the table, but I'm looking for an option that will allow us to wait longer to submit the ad, since the BCC could change their minds about the meeting format at any time.

If I'm understanding the deadlines correctly, below are our options. Publishing in the Times on Sunday, July 12 would actually work out best, but it's likely the most expensive option, and only gives us one more day than the Business Observer. What do you think?

Thanks,
Linda

Good Afternoon, Linda.....

One suggestion would be to check with Jewell White about the Public Hearing Notice not being advertised again. As for the Public Meeting vs. Virtual.....we are all waiting to see how that proceeds moving forward over the next few weeks.

Board Records has used the Business Observer mostly for Petition to Vacate items, but I understand that they can publish ads with Maps.

So, maybe we could submit a sample to the Observer for a quote.

Subject: Legal ad options

Hi James,

I hope things are going well with you.

I'm trying to pick up the pieces of our BCC public hearing/legal ad situation after the meeting last night. Since our hearing was deferred to July 21, I'm being told that we won't need to re-run the legal ad, IF the BCC sticks to the current plan of meeting in person. But if they decide to make it a virtual meeting instead, we will need to re-run it. And either way, we have new land use cases for that date, which will need to be advertised.

Our ad only needs to run by July 14, but with the Times' limited print schedule, if we continue with the less expensive Wednesday option, we would need to get the ad order in by next Friday. That's very early, and everyone agrees that we won't know enough by then.

Given your experience with legal ads, who has the shortest lead time for getting ads published? I heard that you've helped Real Estate Management run ads in the Business Observer. Do you feel they would be a better option? Or possibly the Tampa Bay Business Journal?

Thanks for your help,
Linda

James,

Yes, we will need to work with you to advertise the CPA hearings for those cases for the July 21st meeting. The second hearing for the Rules amendment will be on the same date, so we can advertise them together. The ad will need to run at least 10 days before the CPA hearing, which would put us at Wednesday, July 8 if the Times keeps to their Wednesday/Sunday publication schedule. I'll get a draft to you as we get closer to the date.

Thank you for keeping up with this!
