We're so close to the finish line, now is the time to get careless. Until the majority of people can get vaccinated, it will be dangerous for us to go grocery shopping if the mask mandate is taken away. It already is, since so few places enforce it. So the people who don't want to wear masks can still refuse to do so, since hardly anyone makes them. But for the rest of us, please please please renew the mandate so the average person still protects one another. The loud minority will still do what they want, please keep it safer for the rest of us.

I am writing to add my support for continuing the state of emergency and therefore the mask mandate. There is no debate whether masks work. We know they do, science has proven it and the numbers have shown it. CDC and coronavirus task force members have continued to reiterate how important it is to keep on track with all mitigation measures. Masks have allowed our economy to remain open. We are so close to the end of the tunnel. We can't stop prematurely. A runner wouldn't stop running before crossing the finish line. We can't stop our safety measures before the end of the tunnel. We can't let the loud minority overtake the quiet majority. Masks win! Thank you.
