SPRING SAFETY UPDATE

"We don't want to see a repeat of last year," said Steve Hayes, president and chief executive of Visit St. Pete/Clearwater, which promotes tourism in St. Petersburg and Clearwater, Fla. (above), where crowds jammed the beaches last spring. Visit St. Pete/Clearwater

Superspreaders aren't welcome

For those college students who still have the opportunity to travel, many popular destinations have made it clear that mass gatherings are not welcome.

In St. Petersburg and Clearwater, frequent signage promotes hand washing, spreading out and mask wearing, and ambassadors called "Sunshine Steward Street Teams" hand out gift cards from local businesses to people wearing their masks correctly or otherwise following the rules.

An aerial photograph of a dense, lush green forest. The trees are tightly packed, creating a textured, undulating surface of green. The lighting is bright, highlighting the vibrant colors of the foliage. In the center-left portion of the image, the words "THANK YOU" are written in a bold, white, sans-serif font. The text is clear and stands out against the green background.

THANK YOU
