Covid plans	In a lecture at Cornell University in 1964, physicist Richard Feynman defined the scientific method: First, you GUESS. Then you determine the consequences of your guess. Then you compare those consequences with outcome of experiments. If your guess disagrees with the experiment, it is WRONG. This is science.” from the book, “How Innovation Works: And Why It Flourishes in Freedom” For the past 9 months, we’ve been making a lot of guesses about Covid 19. Some of the guesses have been wrong. Some have been right. Some vilified, some verified. Some, we await the verdict. I hear leaders claim that they are following “science.” What that really means is that they are listening to certain scientists who happen to agree with their political bias. The science of Covid 19 is incomplete and complex. Therefore, public health policy leaders need to be open to reassess their guesses and policies. Anthony Fauci was christened by the press to be our ultimate “scientist.” Policy makers had to heed his guesses or be labeled “anti-scientific,” “uneducated,” or a “conspiracy theorist.” However, our present reality illustrates that scientific policymakers need to re-examine their theory and be open to new ones. That is how science works. Today’s newspaper trumpets “New Virus Cases Surge	Dr. Duane Rommel	2618 Gulf Blvd. unit 508	Indian Rocks Beach	33785	727-439-0698	drommel1@tampabay.rr.com	2020-10-16 08:57:52
