OMB's has no objection to the department submitting a grant application to the University of Baltimore to obtain funding that will support implementation of an innovative local response to the opioid epidemic with an evaluation component. Pinellas County Human Services is proposing to work with law enforcement and the Florida Department of Health in Pinellas to address the "hot spots" for EMS overdose related calls for services.

Requested funding is $499,999 from the University's Center for Drug Policy and Enforcement program. A County match is not required. The total project costs are $499,999. The grant's start date is December 2, 2019 with an end date of November 30, 2020. Funding for this grant is a federal award from the Office of National Drug Control Policy that is managed by the University.

The Department Director can sign the application for the County. Please include this email when you send a copy of the submitted application through Granicus to be placed on the County Administrator's Delegated Log.

OPUS Project Title:

Duration: Single Year

Proposed Abstract (Project Scope of Work): Pinellas County Human Services will work with our partners to implement and innovative local response to the opioid epidemic with an evaluation component. Program elements will include coordinated efforts with law enforcement and the Florida Department of Health in Pinellas (DOH) to address the five "hot spots" for EMS overdose related calls for services. Programmatic activities will include distribution of Naloxone, public education related to overdose prevention and available treatment services.

Benefit Summary (How will this benefit the County, Dept, etc?): This program will afford Pinellas County the opportunity to provide outreach efforts to mitigate the number of overdose deaths. From 2015 to 2018, the number of opioid related accidental fatalities increased by 76.3% (135 to 238), while Pinellas' population increased only 2.7% during the same period. The preliminary figures for 2019 show opioid overdose deaths continue to increase over previous years. Through education and harm reduction strategies, the program will seek to encourage individuals in the overdose "hot spot" areas to be provided with access to Naloxone and educated regarding signs of an overdose and how to connect to substance use disorder treatment.
