I'm chair of the Sustainability Committee for The League of Women Voters of the St. Petersburg Area and we believe in the protection and wise management of Florida native habitat and support preserving the Gladys Douglas-Hackworth property in Dunedin. The 44 acres of green space serves as a refuge for wildlife, but it is worth considering that urban areas account for most of the world's carbon emissions and with so much of Pinellas County developed, it would be in the public's best interest for the commissioners to mitigate our county's carbon emissions with the purchase of this essential habitat. As leaders, you should use this as an opportunity to adapt and grow sustainably because local actions add up. Think globally, act locally.

Comments Please find any possible way to purchase and preserve this important island of wild Pinellas. We no longer have the option to let parcels with this significant habitat value escape preservation in such a highly populated area.

I write to express my support for the preservation of the Gladys Douglas-Hackworth Property in Dunedin. Keeping holding this land for conservation use not only protects valuable wild lands (an increasingly rare resource in our county) but also holds faith with the intentions of the original owner. I hope the BCC will stay faithful to their role as good stewards of our land and protect this special place in perpetuity. Thanks!
