We live in Pinellas Park in the Mainlands senior community. We have a golf course that reopened Apr. 11. This course is a private business that is not associated with our community. We don;t want this course open. Golfers are not social distancing and they come into our yards to retrieve their balls. Please help us.

Topic Essential vs. Non Essential Marinas and Golf Courses

Can you please provide an update as to marina closures? The governor's order cites that Miami-Dade's order will apply. The list cited to Miami-Dade's 06-20 emergency order for the current law as to whether marinas are essential. 06-20 was amended 3 times and the 3rd amendment, which is the current rule, says marinas must close with very limited exceptions. The order makes it clear that marinas cannot stay open for recreational boating. The broadest of the exceptions is the last exception listed and even it allows boats to be removed, but not placed in the water. My family is exposed to massive amounts of people as a result of this portion of the order not being enforced. Can you please elaborate on why the order is not being followed? I have spoken with others on golf courses who are having a similar issue, so I have included that in the heading as well. I have reviewed the governor's essential services list even using "control find" to word search the document and golf courses are not listed as essential. Yet, golf course employees, even the beer cart workers, are exposed to tons of people in a day for a "recreational" not "essential service." There is a clear line between essential recreational activities and essential services in the governor's order. Just because someone can partake in an activity a business offers does not make the service of operating that business essential. For example, people can boat, but they can't compromise the health of marina workers to do it. People who have a boat in their backyard and don't have to contact anyone to get on their boat are in a very different circumstance than those who use a marina.
