DATE

Congratulations on the purchase of your new family member!

It is very important for you to allow your pet the opportunity to adjust to his or her new environment. Remember, your new companion is only a baby. He or she needs rest, so limit playtime to 15 minute intervals. Make sure the whole family understands and follows this rule. The excitement of settling into his or her new home can be very stressful. The most common problems associated with stress are:

Vomiting and Diarrhea: The trip home, excessive handling and any change in food may result in a temporary gastro-intestinal upset. Do not feed milk or table scraps. If you absolutely must change brands of food, do it gradually by mixing the new brand with the regular brand. Mylanta and Pepto Bismol can be used to relieve symptoms.

Diarrhea with blood or mucous: While this can be frightening, internal parasites are not life threatening and should not require after hours emergency care. Should this occur within 14 days of purchase, contact a veterinarian within our network for FREE medications.

Hypoglycemia: This is a condition most common in small breed puppies, such as Chihuahuas, Poms, Poodles, Yorkies, Maltese and other toy or miniature breeds. These puppies must be allowed time to adjust to their new home. They must be fed every four hours. Please contact customer service immediately if your puppy is not eating. Excessive activity can create a condition in which your puppy may become dehydrated and require immediate attention. During the initial 14 day introduction to his or her new environment, Gatorade or small amounts of honey of Karo syrup may be added to your puppies drinking water. Enervite or Nutrical, high caloric supplements, are an excellent additive for minimizing hypoglycemia and giving your puppy necessary vitamins, which he or she quickly depletes during activity. This is not a covered condition. Should the puppy seizure and still be conscious, administer honey or Karo syrup immediately and wrap in a heated towel to maintain body heat. If no improvement within 30 minutes, call customer service. Should the puppy lose consciousness, seek emergency care.

Minor Upper Respiratory and Tracheobronchitis: Kennel Cough is usually a mild, but contagious, upper respiratory virus (non-contagious to humans). Isolation from other dogs is required for the first 14 days, as we do not cover other puppies in the household. The symptoms may be deep, hacking dry cough, runny nose, glazing or tearing eyes and possibly a slight temperature. Kennel cough can last from two to six weeks, depending on your puppy's activities. While very annoying and debilitating to your puppy, these are not life threatening and should not require after hours emergency care. Should this occur within 14 days of purchase, contact a veterinarian within our network for FREE medication. Pediatric Robitussin DM, ¼ teaspoon every 8 hours, and placing the puppy in a steamy bathroom for 20 minutes will relieve the coughing until your vet visit. Nebulization is also available at the store.

EMERGENCY CARE VISITS MUST BE PREAUTHORIZED BY CUSTOMER SERVICE AND CARE x _____ (initial)
RECEIVED AT ONE OF OUR APPROVED FACILITIES. We reimburse for "support care" only, which is medicine to treat the symptoms. Diagnostics can usually be scheduled the following day with an assigned veterinarian, or with your own veterinarian, without jeopardizing your puppy's health. As expenses related to diagnostic testing at the emergency room are not covered, you will be responsible for any tests that you authorize. Expenses for covered illnesses will be reimbursed at regular veterinarian rates, unless it is documented in writing, by the attending veterinarian, that the puppy would not have survived until normal business hours. As a rule of thumb, any pet that is eating, drinking, and playing should not require after hours emergency care. If in doubt, please contact our 24 hour customer service number 727-595-1474 to discuss treatment prior to authorization. Please leave a message after hours and your call will be returned within 15 minutes. We are here to assist you and your new pet.

We hope your puppy brings you many years of happiness

FLORIDA STATUTE 828.29

It is the consumer's right, pursuant to section 828.29, Florida Statutes, to receive a certificate of veterinary inspection with each dog or cat purchased from a pet dealer. Such certificate shall list all vaccines and deworming medications administered to the animal and shall state that the animal has been examined by a Florida licensed veterinarian who certifies that, to the best of the veterinarian's knowledge, the animal was found to have been healthy at the time of the veterinary examination.

If, within 14 days following the sale by a pet dealer of an animal subject to this section, a licensed veterinarian of the consumer's choosing certifies that, at the time of sale, the animal was unfit for purchase due to illness or disease, the presence of symptoms of a contagious or infectious disease, or the presence of internal or external parasites, excluding fleas and ticks; or, if within 1 year following the sale of an animal subject to this section; a licensed veterinarian of the consumer's choosing certifies such animal to be unfit for purchase due to a congenital or hereditary disorder which adversely affects the health of the animal; or, if within 1 year, following the sale of an animal subject to this section, the breed, sex or health of such animal is found to have been misrepresented to the consumer, the pet dealer shall afford the consumer the right to choose one of the following options:

- (a) The right to return the animal and receive a refund of the purchase price, including the sales tax, and reimbursement for reasonable veterinary costs directly related to the veterinarian's examination and certification that the dog or cat is unfit for purchase pursuant to this section and directly related to necessary emergency services and treatment undertaken to relieve suffering;
- (b) The right to return the animal and receive an exchange dog or cat of the consumer's choice of equivalent value, and the reimbursement for reasonable veterinary costs directly related to the veterinarian's examination and certification that the dog or cat is unfit for purchase pursuant to this section and directly related to necessary emergency services and treatment undertaken to relieve suffering; or
- (c) The right to retain the animal and receive reimbursement for reasonable veterinary costs for necessary services and treatment related to the attempt to cure or curing of the dog or cat. Reimbursement for veterinary costs may not exceed the purchase price of the animal. The cost of veterinary services is reasonable if comparable to the cost of similar services rendered by other veterinarians in proximity to the treating veterinarian and the services rendered are appropriate for the certification by the veterinarian.

A consumer may sign a waiver relinquishing his or her right to return the dog or cat for congenital or hereditary disorders. In the case of such waiver, the consumer has 48 normal business hours, excluding weekends and holidays, in which to have the animal examined by a licensed veterinarian of the consumer's choosing. If the veterinarian certifies that, at the time of sale, the dog or cat was unfit for purchase due to a congenital or hereditary disorder, the pet dealer must afford the consumer the right to choose one of the following options:

- (a) The right to return the animal and receive a refund of the purchase price, including the sales tax, but excluding the veterinary costs related to the certification that the dog or cat is unfit: or

Pet ownership advice that could save your home

DOGS

Over time, dogs have evolved from working animals into household companions, presenting many challenges to peaceful coexistence in the home. Left unattended and understimulated, a dog can cause quite a bit of damage to a home, destroying carpeting, furniture, cabinets and walls.

The cause of destructive chewing or scratching is often boredom, frustration or separation anxiety. Dogs need a lot of physical exercise and mental stimulation. A good run or several minutes of a game of fetch first thing in the morning could be just what a dog needs to feel relaxed and at home as you head out the door.

Obedience training is another source of stimulation, and it gives your dog a job to do. Other forms of enrichment include hollow bones or chew toys filled with treats or peanut butter and commercially manufactured treat balls or cubes that dispense treats as the dog pushes them around. Dogs get bored with the same toys, and an easy way to keep them interested is to rotate them every couple of days rather than leaving all the toys out. If your dog has already started chewing on something inappropriate, you can spray something unpleasant on that spot to deter it from chewing there again. Products like Bitter Apple or Bitter End spray are often effective deterrents. They can be found at your local pet store and are usually safe to spray on plants and furniture.

Of course, one of the best ways to keep your home and dog safe is by prevention. A kennel or crate is an excellent way to keep your dog from getting into trouble when you are not at home. Contrary to what many think, crates are not cruel, and for most dogs they provide a sense of security and comfort. If you are at the beginning stages of pet ownership and have the opportunity to prevent destructive occurrences, make sure to set the dog up for success by constantly supervising it and crating it when it cannot be watched.

Housebreaking problems are another cause of damage to the home. A crate is the best tool to protect your carpet and rugs while also teaching the dog to respect first a small area and eventually the whole house. Two big mistakes dog owners make with housebreaking are giving their dog too much freedom too quickly and not enough supervision. The dog must be supervised at all times when out of its crate and should only be allowed access to small areas of the house at first. In the beginning it will spend a lot of time in its crate, but it will eventually earn more freedom. Taking the time to stimulate, supervise and confine your dog could save you a few trips to the home-improvement store.

Housebreaking means that your puppy potties on a schedule you determine. The training period may last anywhere from 3 days to 10 weeks or even longer depending on the individual puppy and how effectively you follow the recommended techniques. Be patient with your puppy. They are like an infant and control comes with age. Getting angry, hitting, or rubbing their nose in their mess only confuses them and causes them to fear you.

CRAATING:

It is essential that you crate your puppy, in order to establish your schedule. The crate should be placed where the puppy can see what is going on around them. They will spend a large portion of their day confined until they have achieved an acceptable amount of control. Remember, this is short term, not for the life of the puppy. Once they are housebroken, they can have the run of the house. The biggest mistake you can make is granting too much freedom too soon. We recommend that the puppy be allowed out of the crate only after just eliminating outside, as too many accidents in the house may delay the housebreaking process. Puppies should be supervised 110% when out, as this time should be a training period as well. You can catch and correct any unacceptable behavior, such as chewing, jumping and mouthing (puppy biting). We also recommend that the puppy be kept on a leash in the house, as it makes correction easier and keeps the puppy in a designated area.

ELIMINATION AREA:

Where the puppy first eliminates will be the place that they will return to, time and again. Choose an acceptable area. Take the puppy to that place on a leash, so that you can confine them to that area until they eliminate. Give them 10 minutes to finish. Once they go, lavish them with loving praise. If the puppy does not go in the allotted time, return the puppy to their crate and repeat the process in 15 to 20 minutes.

TRAINING SCHEDULE:

By feeding your puppy a precise amount of food at a precise time every morning and evening, their biological clock will establish a set pattern for digestion and elimination. Allow them 15 minutes to eat and then remove any remaining food. Take them outside 15 minutes after feeding. Consistency is the most important part of housebreaking.

HELPFUL HINTS:

You must be realistic in your expectations. Control comes with age, much like an infant, except quicker. We recommend taking the puppy out every 2-3 hours for the first week. Extend that one hour each week until they have achieved control for 8 hours. Do not take the puppy out during the night, but you must take them out last thing at night and first thing in the morning.

Puppies tend to go potty after they sleep, play, eat and after long periods of confinement.

Do not put any paper, towels, blankets, etc. in the crate until the puppy is housebroken. These items will encourage elimination. The puppy should only have toys and a water bottle.

Never use the crate for punishment. It should always be a safe haven for the puppy.

When the puppy has an accident in the house, the spot should be thoroughly deodorized so that they are not drawn back to their scent. This can only be accomplished by the use of an odor neutralizer.
