RECLAIMED WATER
IS A LOADED GUN.
DISARM THIS WEAPON!

DAVID BALLARD GEORGE JR
GEORGIA AOE
PALM HARBOR

BOCC Pinellas 20, 2018

I have read thru the Federalist papers and the U.S. Constitution.

(AGAIN) In reality, this constitution is a medium, ^{THAT PLACES} a work of Art, placing us in a hold.

The Declaration of Independence, in perpetuity, (as counterfeited) "serves as preamble to Hamilton's second constitutional undertaking "thereof". (based on water)

~~Hamilton's first constitution is nothing more than a "Useful Art/a hold", on its face!~~

I read thru the Florida State Constitution, Home rule Charter, Maloney's water code, Florida Supreme case #96-332 And the subsequent Apelles case (ratifying the reclaimed water bonds)..

I read Pinellas county has been sold!

(Seen) as an "Absolute bill of sale with full warranties of title and release of county lien" in Pinellas County Resolution 95-286 section IV (C-2). Which is further revealed as a 30 year foreclosure process in statute 170.09, 127.01 and 380.08, sold "internally" as Fee(simple) Title undertaking, seen also as the "tapping of title" in Ordinance 97-103 section 126-509a, in a political attempt at birthing water jurisdictions, absent Christianity, under the 14th Amendment, as based on the reclaimed water variance.

I read the (Harris Act) regarding "Statute Stitching", "Eminent Domain" proceedings. And long-standing concepts (embracing the doctrines) of the future interests of Mid-Evil England.

FURTHER I read the Magna Carta of Great Brittan. And process of liberties "held in perpetuity" whereas King Edward VI (a Defacto king) "taking his own will into his own hands" Disembarked from the Pope. The King "defiantly" separated England from the Roman Catholic Church of Christ. Placing his primary purpose first, King Edward began his own form of religion, seen as the English Reformation, known as the "The Book of Common Prayer."

The well-bound book found in statute (298.36). And the Defacto government birthed thereof as a water jurisdiction in the 14th Amendment, is based on the "heresy" of King Edward's separation from the papacy of Rome. And his defiance toward the Roman Catholic teachings of Christ. I AM A CHRISTIAN, THIS LAND IS BASED ON CHRISTIANITY. OPPOSING BRITISH DEFACTO.

Seen today as a separation of Church and State and District of Columbia/and water District, promoting the Despotic powers of England, in the birthing of water jurisdictions, under the 14th Amendment. Vanquishing Christianity.

Should I not be abstinent alcohol, should the libations of a "Bloody Mary" suit thy palate?

"DRAIN THE SWAMP"????/ "REPEAL AND REPLACE"

"DRAIN THE WATER CONTROL DISTRICT"!!!!!!!!!!/"REPEAL AND REPLACE"

Florida Statute 298.36 is Titled "Drainage and Water Control". And is based in the form, on the provisioning, of a "Well-Bound Book".

The statute hinges itself on a Fill-in-the-Blank, I see as a cleptocracy.

Stating that taxes are to be levied under our County (AdValorem) tax lien, Effectively the tax is levied against the civilian population and is to be assessed, to paid out of hand / assessed out of hand..... And is intent on abdicating/consuming the civilian equity, a homeowner has invested in his home. And is to be paid out of hand of the innocent.

According to 298.36...or levied under any other law in a said district. FunnyRU!

He separated from the Roman Catholic Church of Christ and labeled his Defacto English....

RESOLUTION
95-286 III (C-2)

127.01 Counties delegated power of eminent domain; recreational purposes, issue of necessity of taking; compliance with limitations. — RECREATIONAL NECESSITY, . . .

(1)(a) Each county of the state is delegated authority to exercise the right and power of eminent domain; that is, the right to appropriate property, except state or federal, for any county purpose. The absolute fee simple title to all property so taken and acquired shall vest in such county unless the county seeks to condemn a particular right or estate in such property.

(b) Each county is further authorized to exercise the eminent domain power granted to the Department of Transportation by s. 337.27(1), the transportation corridor protection provisions of s. 337.273, and the right of entry onto property pursuant to s. 337.274.

(2) However, no county has the right to condemn any lands outside its own county boundaries for parks, playgrounds, recreational centers, or other recreational purposes. In eminent domain proceedings, a county's burden of showing reasonable necessity for parks, playgrounds, recreational centers, or other types of recreational purposes shall be the same as the burden in other types of eminent domain proceedings.

(3) A county shall strictly comply with the limitations set forth in ss. 73.013 and 73.014.

WATER IS MORE VALUABLE THAN LAND.

So long as the requested use is suitable for the property, compatible with adjacent land uses, justifiable by an appraisal, and is not speculative, it would qualify as an existing use protected by the Harris Act from certain governmental actions. [58]

14th Amendment

This alternative definition of existing use was and is very controversial, primarily among those who did not favor the enactment of property rights legislation. [59] In fact the definition stitches together long-standing concepts which are not usually linked together and recasts them in a new legal context. [60] Aside from its merit on legal and policy grounds, this provision was central to building a broad base of political support for passage of the legislation.

MAANDATE DICTATE SPECULATIVE

STATUTE STITCHING TAUTOLOGY

The first drafts of the Harris Act were considered by some legislators and participants in the working group to offer little or nothing to the landowners whose disputes with regulatory agencies had propelled the property rights movement. [61] Because government is already equitably estopped from impairing vested rights to existing uses, these legislators and landowners viewed the early drafts of the Harris Act, which protected "vested rights" and an existing use defined only as "an actual, present use or activity" on the land, as offering only an additional item on the menu of remedies already available to landowners. [62] Further, these legislators and landowners recognized that government only rarely deprives a landowner of the actual, present use of land, halts an activity being conducted on an owner's land, or seeks to infringe on a vested right. [63] Accordingly, for the Harris Act to be meaningful to landowners, it had to offer a remedy in some circumstances in which regulatory permission was denied for the conversion of land to a future use in which the owner's rights were not otherwise protected.

NOT THE COURT OR WATER, V & WIT

VESTED RIGHTS - CAN'T BE TAKEN BY A THIRD PARTY, WHILE STILL GOVT OWNED/OPERATED

As a legal concept for an existing land use, the alternative definition is well-grounded in the law of eminent domain. [64] In a condemnation proceeding valuation of the property is based upon the highest and best use. [65] The highest and best use is not limited to those uses authorized under the existing land development regulations. [66] If on the date of taking there is a reasonable probability of a land use change, that probability may be taken into account in determining valuation. [67] An important factor in determining the highest and best use of property is whether the property is suitable for that proposed future use. [68] However, such a future use may not be wholly speculative. [69]

USE IE WATER OMISSION OF CODE RE-CREAT

Seen in the context of the law of eminent domain, there are circumstances in which a prospective future use may be considered an existing land use, and therefore compensable. That is at the heart of the Harris Act's alternative definition of an existing land use, which reaches some future uses. Altogether, it is a remarkably conventional idea in a legal system which has embraced the doctrine of future interests in land since medieval England. [70]

SELLING THE IDEA, FIRST YOU MUST PAY PROVISIONS FOR HOSTAGED WATER, AFTER ADVISE SEIZURE.

The proof necessary to establish that a future land use is reasonably foreseeable could come from such authorities as an adopted local comprehensive plan, local land development regulations, or a credible appraisal which relies at least in part on nonexistent but reasonably expected future uses. [71] Particularly relevant would be evidence of the owner's ability or inability to secure financing based on these documents. [72] The comprehensive plan and land development regulations adopted by the relevant local government also would have a bearing on the suitability and compatibility issues.

Mary I of England

Mary I (18 February 1516 – 17 November 1558) was the Queen of England and Ireland from July 1553 until her death. She is best known for her aggressive attempt to reverse the English Reformation, which had begun during the reign of her father, Henry VIII. The executions that marked her pursuit of the restoration of Roman Catholicism in England and Ireland led to her denunciation as "Bloody Mary" by her Protestant opponents.

Mary was the only child of Henry VIII by his first wife, Catherine of Aragon, to survive to adulthood. Her younger half-brother Edward VI (son of Henry and Jane Seymour) succeeded their father in 1547 at the age of nine. When Edward became mortally ill in 1553, he attempted to remove Mary from the line of succession because he supposed (accurately) that she would reverse the Protestant reforms that had begun during his reign. On his death, leading politicians tried to proclaim Lady Jane Grey as queen. Mary assembled a force in East Anglia and deposed Jane, who was ultimately beheaded. Mary was—excluding the disputed reigns of Jane and the Empress Matilda—the first queen regnant of England. In 1554, Mary married Philip of Spain, becoming queen consort of Habsburg Spain on his accession in 1556, but she never visited Spain.

During her five-year reign, Mary had over 280 religious dissenters burned at the stake in the Marian persecutions. After Mary's death in 1558, her re-establishment of Roman Catholicism was reversed by her younger half-sister and successor Elizabeth I, daughter of Henry and Anne Boleyn, at the beginning of the 45-year Elizabethan Era.

Birth and family

Mary was born on 18 February 1516 at the Palace of Placentia in Greenwich, London. She was the only child of King Henry VIII by his first wife, Catherine of Aragon, to survive infancy. Her mother had many miscarriages;^[2] before Mary's birth, four previous pregnancies had resulted in a stillborn daughter and three short-lived or stillborn sons, including Henry, Duke of Cornwall.^[3] She was baptised into the Catholic faith at the Church of the Observant Friars in Greenwich three days after her birth.^[4] Her godparents included her great-aunt the Countess of Devon, Lord Chancellor Thomas Wolsey, and the Duchess of Norfolk.^[5] Henry VIII's cousin once removed, Margaret Pole, Countess of Salisbury, stood sponsor for Mary's confirmation, which was held immediately after the baptism.^[6] The following year, Mary became a godmother herself when she was named as one of the sponsors of her cousin Frances Brandon.^[7] In 1520, the Countess of Salisbury was appointed Mary's governess.^[8] Sir John Hussey, later Lord Hussey, was her chamberlain from 1530, and his wife, Lady Anne, daughter of George Grey, 2nd Earl of Kent, was one of Mary's attendants.^[9]

Education and early marriage plans

Mary was a precocious child.^[11] In July 1520, when scarcely four and a half years old, she entertained a visiting French delegation with a performance on the virginals (a type of harpsichord).^[12] A great part of her early education came from her mother, who consulted the Spanish humanist Juan Luis Vives for advice and commissioned him to write De Institutione Feminae Christianae, a treatise on the education of girls.^[13] By the age of nine, Mary could read and write Latin.^[14] She studied French, Spanish, music, dance, and perhaps Greek.^[15] Henry VIII doted on his daughter and boasted to the Venetian ambassador Sebastian Giustiniani, "This girl never cries".^[16] Also, as the miniature portrait of her shows, Mary had, like both her parents, a very fair complexion, pale blue eyes and red or reddish-golden hair. She was also ruddy cheeked, a trait she inherited from her father.^[17]

First Statute of Repeal

BASING "DEFACTO" POWER

OPPOSING HER FATHER THE KING (WHO TOOK HIS OWN WILL INTO HIS OWN HAND) SEPARATING FROM ROMAN CATHOLIC

The First Statute of Repeal was an Act of the Parliament of England (1 Mary, st. 2, c. 2), passed in 1553 in the first Parliament of Mary I of England's reign, nullified all religious legislation passed under the previous monarch, the boy-king Edward VI, and the de facto rulers of that time, Edward Seymour, 1st Duke of Somerset, and John Dudley, 1st Duke of Northumberland.

Elizabeth I's Act of Uniformity nullified this act, stating that at the death of our late sovereign lord King Edward VI there remained one uniform order of common service and prayer, and of the administration of sacraments, rites, and ceremonies in the Church of England, which was set forth in one book, intituled: The Book of Common Prayer and Administration of Sacraments [...] the said statute of repeal, and everything therein contained only concerning the said book, and the service, administration of sacraments, rites, and ceremonies contained or appointed in or by the said book, shall be void and of none effect.^[1]

14th AMENDMENT IS TO BE NULL AND VOID, THEREBY NULL? VOID IS THE CONSTITUTION.

The statute was repealed by Section 8 of the Act 1 Jac.1 c.25.

Book of Common Prayer

DESPOTISM

The Book of Common Prayer (BCP) is the short title of a number of related prayer books used in the Anglican Communion, as well as by the Continuing Anglican, Anglican realignment and other Anglican Christian churches. The original book, published in 1549 in the reign of Edward VI, was a product of the English Reformation following the break with Rome. Prayer books, unlike books of prayers, contain the words of structured (or liturgical) services of worship. The work of 1549 was the first prayer book to include the complete forms of service for daily and Sunday worship in English. It contained Morning Prayer, Evening Prayer, the Litany, and Holy Communion and also the occasional services in full: the orders for Baptism, Confirmation, Marriage, "prayers to be said with the sick", and a funeral service. It also set out in full the "propers" (that is the parts of the service which varied week by week or, at times, daily throughout the Church's Year): the collects and the epistle and gospel readings for the Sunday Communion Service. Old Testament and New Testament readings for daily prayer were specified in tabular format as were the Psalms; and canticles, mostly biblical, that were provided to be said or sung between the readings^[1].

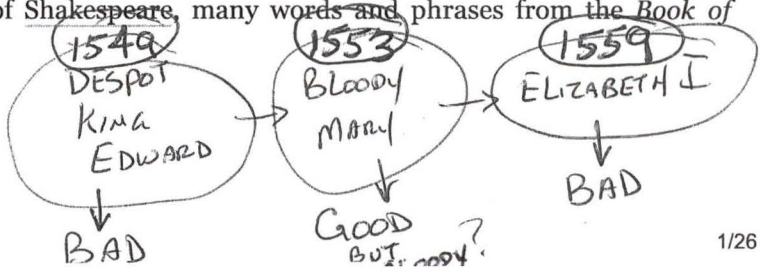

A 1760 printing of the 1662 Book of Common Prayer

The 1549 book was soon succeeded by a more reformed revision in 1552 under the same editorial hand, that of Thomas Cranmer, Archbishop of Canterbury. It was used only for a few months, as after Edward VI's death in 1553, his half-sister Mary I restored Roman Catholic worship. Mary died in 1558 and, in 1559, Elizabeth I reintroduced the 1552 book with a few modifications to make it acceptable to more traditionally minded worshippers, notably the inclusion of the words of administration from the 1549 Communion Service alongside those of 1552.

In 1604, James I ordered some further changes, the most significant of these being the addition to the Catechism of a section on the Sacraments. Following the tumultuous events leading to and including the English Civil War, another major revision was published in 1662 (Church of England 1662). That edition has remained the official prayer book of the Church of England, although in the 21st century, alternative provision under the title Common Worship has largely displaced the Book of Common Prayer at the main Sunday worship service of most English parish churches.

A Book of Common Prayer with local variations is used in churches inside and outside the Anglican Communion in over 50 different countries and in over 150 different languages^[2]. In many parts of the world, other books have replaced it in regular weekly worship.

Traditional English Lutheran, Methodist and Presbyterian prayer books have borrowed from the Book of Common Prayer and the marriage and burial rites have found their way into those of other denominations and into the English language. Like the King James Version of the Bible and the works of Shakespeare, many words and phrases from the Book of Common Prayer have entered common parlance.
