Background Information:

The Public Defender's Office provides legal advice, counsel, and defense services to needy and indigent citizens accused of crimes in Pinellas County (County). Programs are in collaboration with the Public Defender, State Attorney, Pinellas County Sheriff, Judiciary, and local service providers.

The Jail Diversion Recovery Program specifically targets individuals whose legal involvement may be a result of untreated mental illness or co-occurring mental health and substance abuse disorders for services. Services include: assessments, transportation, transitional housing, psychiatric referrals, treatment plans, prescription medication therapy, intensive case management, court liaisons and other community resources. Over a sixteen-year period through 2019, Jail Diversion had served 7,837 clients with a 94% success rate. As a result, the placement of these patients in mental health services has resulted in effect program connections and reduced jail stays.

The Crossover program focuses on identifying youth that are at a high risk of re-offending and whose cases cross over into both the dependency and delinquency divisions of the Unified Family Court of the Sixth Judicial Circuit. This program benefits youth in foster care who are most in need of stability. Between March 2019 and April 2020, 36 youths received services from the Crossover Case Managers. They received a wide array of services from psychiatric counseling, to obtaining social assistance benefits, to scheduling medical and dental appointments. The clients ranged in age from 12 to 19 years old. With the additional support of a new grant award from the Department of Children and Families, in partnership with the County and Ready for Life, the Public Defender's Office anticipates serving 150 additional youth with intensive diversion services over the next three years.

The therapist at Ready for Life assists youth that are aging out of the foster care system. The therapist will work with the youth to find employment, housing, and other vital skills to become successful and achieve independence.
